

Shòu = longevity

Longevity is the most highly esteemed value of the five-fold happinesses. The desire for long life is symbolized in traditions such as eating longevity noodles and peaches on an elder's birthday. Confucius once said: "Compassion brings longevity, immortality brings early death" (Moral conduct was essential to living a long life).

Display this image in your home or office to attract the virtue of long life.